American journalist and photographer Nancy Blundt invested at least 2 years of research, which include about 90 recipes and the essays of American food writers. An introduction was written by Alice Waters, the Vice President of Slow Food International, and a very famous person in the food world. It also includes essays by a dozen American food writers, some of them award winning, on the foods they grew up with in their regions. The rest of the text talks about Nancy's journey of discovery through the 25 US States, including descriptions of landscapes, food history of each region and interviews with food producers, farmers, fishermen, bakers, and home cooks among others.
